To be given the royal treatment is to be celebrated for your refinement. Class comes through in the resplendence brought to a home, the subtlety in the way a room is decorated, and the kind welcome shown to a visitor. Make no mistake: an aristocratic title is not the defining feature of regality, but rather the grace that results from giving generously. Nobility is in the quality of each encounter with another person, the appreciation of the craftsmanship in something as simple as a beautifully-made floorboard. Long are the planks you walk to majesty, but they are cut from old stock and therefore richer. It's all written down in the history of the tree that reached for great heights. It's your life: you have free reign to decide what is beneath you.
